A little focus.
A little journey.

An iPhone focus timer for study, reading, and work.

Dayroad is an iPhone focus timer for making room to study, read, or work. Choose a duration and set off: a car travels through a pixel city while you stay with your task. Accumulated focus earns Stamps that you spend yourself to grow your Home.

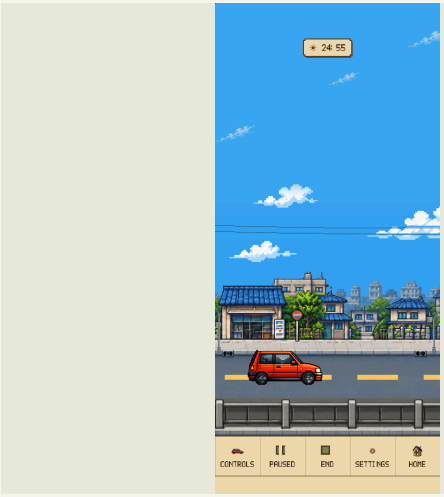
iPhone Focus Timer

Set a duration. Start focusing.

For moments when getting started feels difficult or another app pulls your attention away. Set aside one session to stay with your study, reading, or work.

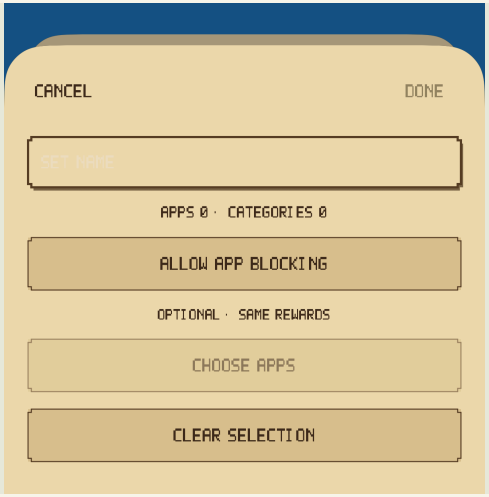
Set a duration → Start

Open the drive menu from Home, choose your focus duration, then set off.



Focus Drive → Stay with it

The car drives automatically while the timer runs. There is no steering to do, so your attention can stay on your task.



Focus Lock → Fewer distractions

Optionally block selected apps and categories. Screen Time permission is required.

Website blocking is not supported in version 1.0. A Lock Screen Live Activity shows the remaining time, with a completion alert when the session ends. Availability depends on your device and notification settings.

Settle in. Drive on. Unwind.

There is no car to steer. Set a duration, then give your attention to your task. Side-on streets and a top-down driving view, clear afternoons and rainy evenings bring a change of scenery to familiar routines.

Pixel streets, passing scenery, and music set a gentle mood. Dayroad becomes a quiet backdrop for time spent focusing and moments spent taking a break.

Time well spent. A reason to return.

Complete your focus and earn one Stamp for every 25 accumulated minutes. Save enough, then spend Stamps yourself to unlock the next Home stage. Growth is not automatic.

Grow Home · Start again

A Home that grows through 35 stages is designed to give your next session a small goal to look forward to.

Your time, made visible.

Every 25 accumulated minutes of focus earns one Stamp. Save the Stamps needed for the next stage, then spend them to unlock it. From a small beginning through 35 stages, your Home becomes a visible trace of time well spent.
